Time for the essential.

As data quantities increase, they shape our business processes more and more. Being able to access required information rapidly from any location and at any time has become an absolute necessity. To use data effectively, optimum data management and control is essential.

REISSWOLF f.i.t. (file information technology) is a web-based, audit-compliant digital archive that provides high access speed with a convenient search function. Archived documents can be found via precise text content search and exchanged with others as required. Customisable workflows depict your business processes. The system is ready for use immediately and requires neither hardware nor software installation.

Data can be accessed online at any time via REISSWOLF f.i.t. The software is also available directly and conveniently as an app. German high-security computer centres guarantee protection of your data.
